

PSYC2110 : Educational Psychology

A study of the psychological implications involved in the teaching-learning situation with emphasis on those psychological principles applicable to children ages 6-12 and adolescents 13-18. A variety of learning and developmental theories based on research from the field of psychology are covered. (See EDUC2110)

Credits 3

Prerequisite Courses

EDUC1100: Introduction to Education

Prerequisites

Prerequisite course, Sophomore classification, or Instructor's permission