

ACCT6401 : Advanced Accounting Information Systems

Presents objective user analysis of information systems and their role in providing accounting information for planning, operations control, and managerial/financial control. Introduces students to the flow of information through the various accounting cycles and the corresponding internal controls.

Credits 3