

PRTH9330 : Gospel, Word, and Table

This course is an advanced study of the principles and practices of three specific areas of ministry: evangelism, preaching, and sacramental worship. Included in the course will be student submission of sermons for peer discussions and evaluation in the context of the student's own ministry setting. (This course builds upon and is dependent on the exegetical and interpretive skills and understanding of Scripture developed in BIBL9320, which is a prerequisite.) This course also explores both the historical and theological foundation of the sacraments and their vital role in worship and the life of the Church.
